

FACEBOOK AGREEMENT

- No Friends (aside from Mom & Dad) who are more than 3 years older than you.
- Friends – only those people you have met in real life...and you actually would want to hang out with them in real life
- Do NOT post photos that:
 - Taken in a mirror
 - Taken in a washroom
 - Show too much skin or cleavage
 - Focuses on your behind
 - Are unbecoming of you or your friends
 - Contain people who are not on FaceBook
- Do NOT enter private information: full name, address, cell number, real birthdate, etc
- Do NOT share your password with anyone but Mom & Dad. Your current password must always be written in your password, address book.
- Do NOT write anything mean, sarcastic, etc. Remember your face doesn't show. Words alone can convey sentiment, but without benefit of inflection or facial expression, they can be misconstrued. Use descriptive wording, or emoticons to ensure your meaning is clear. By the same token, don't jump to conclusions about another person's intent in posting an unclear comment. When in doubt, ask for clarification.
- Type in lowercase case, not in all caps. By the rules of netiquette, all caps equates to shouting. If you type with all caps, you will annoy and possibly offend other forum members.
- Say online exactly what you would say in person. In other words, if you wouldn't say it to the person's face in front of your Grandmother, you shouldn't type it into a forum.
- Be respectful. Internet etiquette is similar to standard etiquette in this area. Appreciate that your opinion is one of many. You can disagree with another person without being disrespectful or rude online.
- _____ minutes MAXIMUM on Facebook per day
